Profile

A deep appreciation for the use of legal strategy on behalf of clients in need drew Jonathan Lieberman to the field of injury law. Jonathan understands that when people seek his help, they are hurt and in distress. He works hard to gain clients' trust and to thoroughly immerse himself in the details of their cases so he can effectively document and present all of their damages.

The laws and insurance regulations related to personal injury can seem inordinately complex. Clients are often overwhelmed not only by managing their injuries and concerns about medical bills, but also by attempting to navigate their cases and field calls from insurance companies. Jonathan is dedicated to simplifying the process for each client, showing them "how we will apply the law to their particular situations to maximize the recovery we obtain."

One of Jonathan's strengths is his ability to connect with people even when they are at their most vulnerable. He takes great pride in guiding clients through challenges related to their injuries and helping them recover and thrive.
