Family Law

Profile

In a time of uncertainty in his clients' lives, Chris Kaczmarek seeks to restore a sense of balance, serenity and focus through his calm demeanor and willingness to listen. As a family law attorney, Chris guides his clients through the separation and divorce process including child custody, child support, and property divisions.

When he first meets with a client, Chris recognizes that everything is on the line for them, from their financial future to their relationship with their children. He works to help them fully understand the process they are about to go through, to hear their goals and to find realistic means of achieving those goals through creative problem solving.

Prior to joining Stein Sperling, Chris worked as a family law attorney for a firm in Westminster, Maryland.

Education

American University (B.A., cum laude, 2012)

Georgetown University (J.D., 2015)

More

Chris is an ardent yoga practitioner, who tries to spend time on his mat every day. He enjoys spending time with his wife and dogs and looks forward to stand up paddle boarding in the summer months.
