Profile

Brandon Hairston prides himself on his attention to detail and ability to communicate with clients. Brandon focuses his practice on all aspects of estate planning, from helping clients prepare necessary documents to wealth preservation, succession planning, and charitable gift planning.

Brandon believes in making sure that his clients have the knowledge to make informed and effective decisions when planning for their and their families' future. He helps his clients to attain their goals by advising them on the best legal vehicle to achieve their respective goals whether that is a will, living revocable trust, or irrevocable trust.

Prior to joining Stein Sperling, Brandon worked at a small Maryland firm with a focus on estate planning and business formation law.

Education

Morgan State University (B.S., 2015, summa cum laude)
University of Baltimore School of Law (J.S., 2019)

More

When not at work Brandon likes to visit the gym, hang out with family and friends to watch NBA and NFL games. He also loves to travel to see new things and different cultures.
